Boston University School of Law
Boston University School of Law offers one of the finest legal educations in the nation, attracting students from all over the country and abroad. A pioneer in American legal education, the school was founded in 1872 on the principles that legal education should be open to all men and women of ability without regard to background or beliefs, and that it should balance theory and analysis with practical training. Today, the school’s innovative curriculum combines theoretical courses, clinical training, and specialized offerings—including concentrations, dual degrees, and semesters abroad. www.bu.edu/law

College of William & Mary, William & Mary Law School
Established in 1779, William & Mary Law School is the nation’s oldest, located near Colonial Williamsburg and within easy driving distance to Norfolk, Richmond and Washington, DC. As a nationally recognized law school, we are well known for our innovative Legal Practice Program and the technologically advanced McGlothlin Courtroom and Center for Legal and Court Technology. As a relatively small school, William & Mary students enjoy personalized attention from our distinguished faculty. http://law.wm.edu

Duquesne University School of Law
With its attractive urban location, appealing small class size, extensive alumni network and many other benefits offered by a Duquesne University School of Law education, it’s no surprise that admission to the school is a goal shared by many people from around the country. Last year, applications were received from residents of dozens of states and several countries. The current entering class earned undergraduate degrees at more than 60 different colleges and universities. The School of Law offers both full-time and part-time J.D. programs, several joint degree programs, and study abroad options. http://www.duq.edu/academics/schools/law

George Washington University
Established in 1865, The George Washington University Law School is the oldest law school in Washington, DC. The school is accredited by the American Bar Association and is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools. The George Washington University Law School has produced some of the finest minds across the spectrum of legal scholarship. That tradition continues today, as GW Law graduates use the knowledge and skills they gain here to influence the critical legal conversations of our times. www.law.gwu.edu

Maine Law
Our small size allows a close interaction with classmates, faculty, and staff. Maine Law prepares its graduates for a wide variety of careers in law, business, government, and public service. Areas of special curricular strength include business and commercial law, marine law, trial advocacy, and international law. Our Faculty places teaching as its first priority. Our students regularly write strong teaching evaluations. Superb faculty mentoring and out-of-class contributions to student educational and professional development are as much a part of our curriculum as the actual classes themselves. http://mainelaw.maine.edu/
Maurice A. Deane School of Law at Hofstra University
JD; JD/MBA; LLM programs. Courts, law firms and employers recognize the significance of a Juris Doctor (J.D.) from Hofstra Law, or a degree from our joint J.D./M.B.A. and J.D./M.P.H. programs, because they know our graduates are renowned for their legal knowledge, preparedness and poise. www.law.hofstra.edu

New York Law School
New York Law School, located in the heart of New York City’s financial, legal, government and emerging tech districts, grants students unparalleled access to the many professional opportunities available within just blocks of its state-of-the-art facilities.
