

GLOBAL MAINE: Documentary Production in Community

Short Term 2016
Prof. Elizabeth Eames
159 Pettengill Hall
x6082

ANTH s29
Anthropology
eeames@bates.edu

Students in this course contribute to the ongoing development of a Bates, Bowdoin, and Colby project called "Global Maine," an interactive web-based documentary exploring immigration and social transformation in the state. Collaborating with local immigrant communities, students help produce short video building-blocks for this multimedia production.

Weekly meeting times may vary, but normally we will convene during the day on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday. Ordinarily, Wednesdays & weekends are time off from ANs29. Our early weeks will be spent learning camera technique, the later weeks will focus on building editing skills. The middle weeks involve documenting community affairs.