We like you a lot, and we want to make sure you can be here. We know college is an expensive proposition. We know that there are many, many families who can’t pay the full cost of college. We’re here to help.

We’re helping not just because we’re nice (though we are!), but also because helping in this particular way is at the core of Bates.

"We’re helping ... because helping in this particular way is at the core of Bates."

Bates was founded by people who believed that a great education should be broadly accessible. We were the first college in New England to be coeducational from the start. We were one of the first colleges in America to admit students regardless of race, ethnicity, or religion. If Bates isn’t accessible and open to people from all walks of life, then it’s not Bates.

So, this is Bates.

And this is you. Congratulations!
Welcome. Let’s go do something amazing!

HOW DO WE DETERMINE YOUR FAMILY’S LEVEL OF FINANCIAL NEED?
The basic formula is this: We subtract the amount of your family’s calculated contribution from the total cost of attendance at Bates. The result is your financial need. Bates meets 100% of the calculated need of our enrolled students through a combination of grant aid, student loans, and student employment.

WHAT DOES THE COST OF ATTENDANCE INCLUDE?
Your cost of attendance includes both direct costs that are billed by Bates, and indirect costs, which are out-of-pocket expenses paid by you and your family over the course of the academic year.

Direct costs include the single fee that Bates charges for tuition, room, board, and fees. Direct costs can also include fees for off-campus Short Term courses (if you choose to enroll in one while you’re at Bates) and student health insurance, if you elect Bates health insurance while you’re enrolled.

Indirect costs (for things like books, travel, and miscellaneous expenses) can vary depending upon personal choice — but we estimate annual costs of $2,150–$3,050 when calculating your family’s financial need.

“What do we determine your family's calculated contribution? All of the financial aid we offer is based on financial need, and Bates uses a formula called Institutional Methodology to calculate eligibility for institutional aid. Developed by financial aid practitioners and economists, Institutional Methodology is the College Board's need-analysis system.

To calculate your family's contribution, we carefully analyze the financial information provided on the CSS Profile and other documents. In addition to considering parent income and assets, we review the size of your family along with the number of siblings currently enrolled as undergraduate students. If you've provided us with information regarding unusual or extraordinary medical expenses, we take that into consideration, as well. As a student, you are also expected to contribute toward your education costs through summer earnings and savings.

"We’re committed to meeting 100% of our students’ financial need."
The Award

What's in your financial aid award?

Every award is different, but most include one or more of these types of aid:

GRANTS AND SCHOLARSHIPS
Grants are gifts that do not need to be repaid that come from institutional, federal, state, or private sources.

Bates Grant Aid
Bates grant aid is offered to students who demonstrate financial need according to our Institutional need formula — it’s funded by endowment earnings, the annual operating budget of the college, and gifts from alumni, parents and friends.

Federal Pell Grants
Federal Pell Grants are awarded to students who demonstrate exceptional financial need according to a federal need formula. Awards for 2020–21 ranged from $639 to $6,345. Please note that if you qualify for a Federal Pell Grant during the academic year, it will replace an equal amount of the Bates grant shown on your award letter.

State Grants
Students who live in certain states may qualify for grants offered through their state higher education authority. If you become eligible for a state grant at any point during the fall semester, the amount you receive will replace an equal amount of the Bates grant shown on your award letter.

Outside Scholarships
Bates has a generous policy that rewards students who apply for and receive scholarships from private or community organizations. You can use an outside scholarship to reduce the loan or work in your financial aid package, or assist in paying your family’s contribution.

Your Bates aid will be reduced only if the combination of grant received from all sources (Bates, federal, state, or other) exceeds your calculated cost of attendance. Outside scholarships do have to be reported to Student Financial Services so that we can ensure your financial aid award remains in compliance with federal regulations. Even if your Bates grant doesn’t change, we may still be required to reduce the federal loan or work components of your award.

Tuition Benefits Through a Parent's Employer
If you told us that your parent will qualify for dependent tuition assistance as a benefit of employment at a college or university, the amount of the benefit has been included in your award. Please note that Bates does not permit tuition benefits to replace family contribution.

Bates has a generous policy that rewards students who apply for and receive scholarships from private or community organizations.
FEDERAL DIRECT STUDENT LOAN
Your award includes a Federal Direct Student Loan, which can be either Subsidized or Unsubsidized. Subsidized loans are awarded on the basis of need, in accordance with federal regulations. The U.S. Department of Education pays the interest on a Direct Subsidized Loan while you are in school at least half-time and during periods of deferment. Students who do not qualify for a subsidized loan, or who have borrowed the maximum through the subsidized loan, can still borrow an unsubsidized loan. Borrowers of unsubsidized loans are responsible for paying the interest on this type of loan during all periods. First-year students can borrow up to $5,500 through the Federal Direct Student Loan program, and usually apply for this type of loan during the summer. More information about borrowing limits, current interest rates, and applying is available at bates.edu/financial-services.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT
Students who participate in Bates’ student employment program and work eight to 10 hours per week throughout the school year can anticipate earning $1,700–$2,000. Students are paid every two weeks for the actual number of hours worked and can use earnings from employment for out-of-pocket expenses.

Students are not placed in positions, but typically apply for jobs with the help of the Bates Student Employment Office, which maintains all available campus jobs. While Bates makes every effort to assist students in securing on-campus employment, we cannot guarantee that any individual student will be able to arrange a specific type or amount of work.

Students with academic or extracurricular schedules that prevent them from securing employment can borrow funds through the Direct Student Loan program to cover shortfalls, if they wish. Student Financial Services can provide additional information and guidance regarding borrowing.

POLICIES
How do I reapply for financial aid?
Financial aid at Bates is available for a total of eight semesters, provided that you meet application deadlines and continue to demonstrate need according to our institutional guidelines. Families reapplying for financial aid must complete the CSS Profile and FAFSA and provide copies of income tax returns and other materials annually.

What happens if my family’s financial situation changes?
If your family experiences a significant change in income, either during the school year or before you arrive in the fall, we encourage you to contact us so that we can discuss the change and share information regarding our reconsideration process. Examples of significant changes that may warrant reconsideration include loss of employment, death or disability of a parent wage earner, or loss of income from child support, social security benefits, or alimony. In any of these situations, documentation regarding the specific change to financial circumstances must be provided.

What happens to my financial aid if my sibling graduates from college?
Your family contribution is based on the number of students in your family who will be enrolled as undergraduate students during 2021–22. Having one or more siblings enrolled in college is a significant factor in our calculation of your financial need, and our office will be reaching out next September to ask for verification that your sibling has enrolled for the 2021–22 academic year. If your sibling’s enrollment plans change before then, please inform us as soon as possible. It’s also important to understand that the amount your parents are expected to contribute toward your college costs will increase when your sibling is no longer enrolled in an undergraduate program. In fact, it’s not unusual for the Bates parent contribution to double in the year following a sibling’s graduation from college.

Will my student loan and employment change from year to year?
The student loan and employment you’ve been offered is considered ‘self-help.’ The amount of self-help offered to you will increase each year you are at Bates, in accordance with the schedule outlined below.

How much will I be expected to contribute in future years?
Bates expects all students to contribute toward college costs, and a minimum summer earnings expectation has been included as part of your family’s contribution. The minimum summer earnings contribution will increase by $100 each year you are at Bates, in accordance with the schedule outlined below.

Financing Options

“Our student financial services team will work with you one-on-one to find a solution that puts a Bates education within reach.”

MONTHLY PAYMENT PLAN
Bates offers a monthly payment plan to enable families to spread education costs across the academic year in monthly installments. Families can choose from a variety of plans, each offering flexible payment options. The current fee to enroll in a plan is $70. Plan offerings will be updated in the spring, and additional information will be provided to families at that time.

OTHER LOAN OPTIONS
Parent and private student loans help families finance education costs over time, making payments more manageable. Different options are available, depending upon whether the student qualifies for or is receiving other types of financial aid. A few of those options:

Federal Direct PLUS Loan (for Parents)
PLUS loans are federal loans that parents of dependent undergraduate students can use to help pay education expenses. Parents who do not have adverse credit may borrow up to the entire cost of education minus any financial aid received by the student. Parents who wish to borrow through PLUS can request a loan and complete an electronic Master Promissory Note (eMPN) at studentaid.gov/app/launchPLUS.

action during the summer. More information about PLUS loans is available at bates.edu/financial-services.

Private Student Loans
Students who have exhausted eligibility for federal loans may want to consider a private loan. Private loans generally require a creditworthy cosigner, and repayment options often vary according to the amount borrowed and the credit score of the student and/or cosigner. Families are advised to consider federal loans first, as private loans may have higher interest rates and less flexible repayment options. Students, especially, should exhaust federal loan options before taking out any private education loan.

Additional information concerning private education loan programs can be found at finaid.org/loans/privatestudentloans/.
