Top 5 Reasons to Share Your Gift Plans

1. Peace of mind. Sharing your estate gift plans ensures that your gift will be used exactly as you intend. We can provide information and sample language to help you and your advisor carry out your intentions. For endowed funds, such as financial aid funds or professorships, minimum gift amounts and specific language may be needed.
2. Designating a purpose. All gifts, including estate gifts, can be designated to any area that is important to you. Not sure how you would like your gift used? Bates staff can help you identify areas that align with your interests and passions.
3. No obligations. Sharing your gift with Bates does not make it binding or irrevocable—you still have the flexibility to revise your estate plan at any time if your circumstances or priorities change.
4. It counts. Planned gifts are a crucial source of support for Bates. While it may be difficult to predict the future value of your gift, by sharing an estimated current value, your gift can be included in the college's philanthropic goals. Providing an estimated current value of your gift can also help guide conversations with Bates staff about options for designating your gift to have the most meaningful impact.
5. Recognition. When Bates is aware of your gift it allows us to express our gratitude during your lifetime. It also qualifies you for membership in the Phillips Society which includes invitations to special events and personal recognition. When you share your gift plans with Bates, you get to control the frequency and type of communications you receive from us. You can also share your gift plans with us and remain anonymous if you choose.
