

This paragraph goes across the whole poster. This probably isn't easy to read, but I'm including it here so you can see a variety of things. ### columns

Notice the command line above this text (in the tex file):

```
\begin{column}{.3\linewidth}

This is one of the commands that makes this poster have three main columns each one-third the width of the poster. Changing the ".3" will allow you to make columns different widths.

blocks

The "block" environment is only available in the "beamer" package. It can have a title and then some text. Anything can go inside a block.

Here's a block without a title.

Not everything needs to be in a block.

Notice the commands that were used to put vertical space above and below this sentence. You can change how much space you want.

Alerts

If you want to highlight a specific word, use the "alert" command.

Colors

This poster is set to print in GARNET. See the very top of the tex file for color options. Comment out the color lines at the beginning of the tex file to get a nice blue color.
